ArcBest Wins Comparably Awards for Best CEO and Best Company for Women

For the fourth consecutive quarter, ArcBest has been recognized as an exceptional place to work based on employee sentiment

FORT SMITH, Arkansas, December 15, 2021 — ArcBest[®] (Nasdaq: ARCB), a leader in supply chain logistics, announced today that the company has once again been recognized by Comparably — a leading workplace culture and corporate brand reputation platform — winning awards for Best CEO and Best Company for Women. This is the fourth consecutive quarter ArcBest has won Comparably awards, highlighting the nation's best companies and leaders, as determined by anonymous employee sentiment ratings. Other awards include Best Company Perks & Benefits, Best CEOs for Women and Best HR Team.

Judy R. McReynolds, ArcBest chairman, president and CEO was ranked No. 26 on the Best CEOs list, recognizing the Top 100 highest-rated CEOs for large companies, and ArcBest ranked No. 8 on the Best Companies for Women list, based exclusively on feedback from female employees.

“What makes these Comparably awards so meaningful is that they are based solely on employee feedback. It is a testament to Judy’s courageous leadership and our commitment to providing the best environment for our employees and the best service to our customers,” said Erin Gattis, ArcBest chief human resources officer. “Our people are at the heart of what makes ArcBest an industry leader, and we remain focused on creating a workplace that embraces diverse experiences and perspectives.”

Each quarter, Comparably honors companies and leaders that are deemed the most exceptional in 16 categories, as rated by their own employees, over a 12-month period. Rankings are determined based on a combination of questions in 20 core culture metrics, from compensation and career growth to leadership, work environment and professional development opportunities — providing a comprehensive and accurate look at what it is really like to work at the company.
